

Exemptions

Congress established nine categories of information that are not required to be released in response to a FOIA request because release would be harmful to a governmental or private interest. These categories are called “exemptions” from disclosure and protect for example, personal privacy, privileged communications, and law enforcement interests.

There are nine (9) exemptions to FOIA.

- FOIA Exemptions
- Presumption of Openness
- FOIA Exclusions

○

○

○

○

○

○

